| 11:20 – 12:10 | Introduction to Topics in Soil Health.
Soil health has been a phrase in agriculture and green industries for some time; though more recently has become added to the household vernacular. Agronomists, nursery growers, landscapers, policy makers and advocates alike have used the term with growing frequency, but what does the term actually mean? Where did it come from and how can we understand soil health in our context? This presentation will offer an overview of the concepts fundamental to understanding "healthy soils" and how they may be applied to our work.
Speaker: Mark Townsend, Frederick County, University of Maryland Extension |
