What is Annie’s Project?

Annie’s Project focuses on the many aspects of farm management and is designed to empower women in overall farm decision making and to build local networks throughout the state. The target audience is women in agriculture with a passion for business.

Topics for the sessions cover the five areas of Risk Management – Production, Marketing, Financial, Legal Risk, Human Resources.

This course is open to all women interested in farm management practices.

For More Information:
www.extension.umd.edu/anniesproject
www.facebook.com/anniesprojectmarylandanddelaware

If you have additional questions contact Jenny Rhodes at 410-758-0166 or jrhodes@umd.edu or Victoria Corcoran vgc@umd.edu.

Annie’s Project—A Farm Management program for Women in Agriculture
Join 413 other farm women from Delaware and Maryland since 2008 –

Be an Annie’s Project Graduate!

Funding for this project was provided by the Northeast Center for Risk Management Education, the USDA National Institute of Food and Agriculture, USDA RMA, UMD Extension and DE Cooperative Extension. This material is based upon work supported by USDA/NIFA.

Request for accommodations related to disability should be made two weeks prior to the event.

The University of Maryland Extension programs are open to any person and will not discriminate against anyone because of race, age, sex, color, sexual orientation, physical or mental disability, religion, ancestry, national origin, marital status, genetic information, political affiliation, and gender identity or expression.
What is Annie’s Project

Annie was a woman who grew up in a small town in Northern Illinois. Her goal was to marry a farmer and she did. Annie spent her lifetime learning how to be an involved business partner with her farm husband. Together they did great things, but it wasn’t easy. This is Annie’s Project – to take her experiences and share it with women living and working in a complex business.

Here is what recent Annie’s Project Graduates say about their experience-

“Women involved in agriculture in any way can benefit from Annie’s Project Classes, even if the involvement is still in dream form. Annie’s Project provides the inspiration and sparks the initiative!”

“Annie’s Project is a great opportunity for women to share ideas and experiences in a supportive environment”

“I loved meeting other female farmers, great group of new friends!”

Locations vary from year to year, but here is a list of those areas that typically hold an Annie’s Project Class

- Baltimore County Ag Center, Cockeysville, MD
- Cecil County Administration Building, Elkton, MD
- Chesapeake College, Wye Mills, MD
- Harford Community College, Bel Air, MD
- Prince George’s County Extension, Clinton, MD
- Washington County Extension, Boonsboro, MD
- Wor-Wic Community College, Salisbury, MD
- Carvel Research & Education Center, Georgetown, DE

Would you like to receive Annie’s Project updates throughout the year? To be put on our mailing list, please fill out and return the information below, or visit us at: www.extension.umd.edu/anniesproject

Name:__________________________________
Address:________________________________
City, State:_______________________________
Zip:____________________________________
Phone:_________________________________
Email:__________________________________

Please return form to: QA Extension Office 505 Railroad Ave Suite 4 Centreville, MD 21617